

Your Path to Re-STORY-ation

Step 1: WHO

- Who are the human and “more-than-human” characters in the place where you live?
- Do you know their names? What do they do?
- What else do you want to learn about them?
- See sample lesson 1 & 2 for more about this

Step 2: WHERE & WHY

- Why do the stories you observe have to happen in THIS place?
- How are your characters connected to each other ecologically, in the “web of life” ?
- What stories do indigenous people tell about this place?

Step 3: WHEN

- What was your place like 50 years ago? 100? 1,000? 1,000,000?
- What can you learn from past generations about what a healthy ecosystem is “supposed” to look like where you are?
- What species or locations are part of the nature heritage of your family / culture?
- What species or locations are part of the nature heritage of the indigenous /original people of the land where you live?

Step 4: HOW

- How do stories work? How do you make them feel inspiring?
- How do you want to share your stories?
- What parts do you want to share, and what parts do you want to keep private?

Step 5: WHAT

- What do you WANT the future to be like in your place?
- What actions can you take to take steps toward that future?
- What “gifts” do you have to share?

Step 6: CELEBRATE!

- What small steps have you already taken that you want to celebrate?
- What will you do to celebrate?
- Who will you celebrate with?
